

Empowering Families Through Financial Education

Hello! My name is Elisa Radigan. I am a farmer from Montana over in the Manhattan/Churchill area. I am also a Licensed Financial Professional whose goal is to help empower every-day families and small businesses with financial education and helping to gain a better understanding of the fundamentals of financial and retirement strategies. I also love to help my farmers protect the family farms and put protections and strategies in place to make sure the farms stay within the families and aren't lost to different outside forces. All of my appointments are free of charge! I love to help people as much as I can and make the world a little bit less of an overwhelming place to be.
